

It was the busiest week of my life, with piled-up assignment submissions and final exams. I decided to go on a trip to Japan with my family right after my exams to relieve all my stress. I was so busy that I could not spend time to shop clothes for us. We wanted to purchase traditional Japanese attire for some special events we planned to attend. Despite the fact that our clothing choices had nothing to do with the weather in Japan, we nonetheless managed to pack the clothes we had and felt awkward the entire time we travelled. We wished there had been an outfit recommendation website that would have allowed us to choose our outfits based on our age and those specific to Japan and the weather on the dates we visited. This trip motivated me to build this website. I came to understand the importance of an outfit recommendation website based on a time-specific weather forecast for any trip to go smoothly. We could have saved a lot of time with the shopping links right on top of the recommended outfit, allowing us to choose from a wide range of similar outfits from the web. The best feature of this website is the option to save our favourite costumes to a favourites list and browse for similar outfits whenever we like with a click of a button.